

Longfloor Update

We are continuing to operate at our binder manufacturing facilities at Longcliffe, Derbyshire until the Government issues further guidelines.

We have stock of binder available should our customers require it. We have also ensured via our supply chain that we have sufficient raw materials available to us for the coming months ahead.

Currently we are still able to arrange delivery however, please allow an additional 24hrs on standard delivery times.

However, our staff and customers wellbeing are of the utmost importance and we are taking every precaution to keep everyone at minimal risk. With this in mind we have instructed our field-based technical sales managers to remain home as from today. This means they will not be able to provide any site support and back-up as you would normally expect. They are still however able to offer back up by phone or video conference if required.

We look forward to sharing the launch of IntegraCure to the industry and will hit the ground running with this new exciting product when we all come out of these unprecedented times.

Thank you for your cooperation and understanding

Stay safe.

The Longfloor Team
